want you to hear them."

Prof. C. H. Waller, head of the Extension Work of Texas, among Negross was introduced first.

His practical and witty remarks were enthusiastically applaunded from time to time. He told of his work in general, stating that the United States (Government had more Negro workers) in the field in Texas than in any other Southern State and that this work had as its object, the teaching of rural workers how to make a profit on their labor and how to become as satisfied as the city work,
